“ Dwayne is my younger brother the baby of the family. I will always remember how he took my first born child for a walk down the driveway while our mom was babysitting while we were on vacation she was about 6 months old. Dwayne took Dana in the stroller down the driveway over to the neighbors house so the Dana could see the PIGS, she totally enjoyed that squeally at them. Dwayne would call me and other family members quite often as I often called him.We always found things to talk about kids, grandkids, jobs and whatever came to mind. He always stayed at our home and Dale just loved talking with him about fishing. I will miss our talks, I all ready do but I know that he is no longer in pain and that he is with our parents and family members and believe me he would be bragging about all of his grand children he was so proud of them. Rest in peace Dwayne I love you. Linda “ Daddy always took us fishing. We learned a lot about life in his boat. Besides teaching me how to be a pretty good fisherman we he taught me patience and to appreciate the little things. To enjoy nature and not take life for granted and move so fast. Living so far has not been easy but we talked at least once a week daddy shared a lot about his life with me and me with him. My family and I were finally able to make the trip back home last summer, Daddy always talked about his boat (he was so proud) and wanted to take us for a ride. We were able to do that! We went from chichominy all the way tondead mans fleet Newport news. The weather was great he even taught my older two how to drive the boat! I will never forget all the good times and everything he taught me and everything he was- a kind person with a big heart and a necessary stubbornness that was passed in to me. One huge thing daddy always said was never trust a liar or a thief- this lesson has saved me from a lot of misfortune in life. I repeat that statement on a regular basis. I have comfort in know daddy is in heaven with his parents and my grandpa DP as many called him... And his siblings he has lost and our amazing family friend Laurie.
