“ Yo nigga, Kevin I miss you brother. It's hard trying to figure out reality. 30 years sounds like a long time but seems it wasn't that long ago. Riding bicycles around the neighborhood and just trying to have fun. Catching rides to school with Ron on his way to colonial foreign car so we didn't have to ride the bus. Remember our nicknames Fishtail, Crowbar, Bandit, we thought we were the world. Its amazing how life changes and the world got so much bigger as we got older. I can't believe reality. Can't believe your gone. But I know God had a plan for you and I know he called you home. You were an amazing man, great friend, and would help any person at anytime. You will definitely be missed and your memory will always live on. My heart goes out to Ron and Christina and the rest of the family and friends. Sorry it took so long to write you brother I miss you. The CSA

“ Kevin and I were high school sweethearts well more like I was still in High School, he took my heart as my 1st true love then. We parted ways until he came back and then we parted ways until we went through life experiences and were prepared with all those lessons to become husband and wife, even over that time we stayed in contact. I never lost love for him. He was my everything and the love never faded, we came back together and the love grew stronger for both of us. We had so many great memories together and what a great husband he made and father. We did everything together, he loved us all with an unconditional love that I will never forget. My home was always where he was and until we meet again to be together again I only hope he will still walk hand in hand in spirit as we did as husband and wife until that time comes. He was mine and I was his and it will stay that way. Kevin, my King Penguin i love you beyond words and i miss you!! Your were my rock, my everything. This life will never be same for any of our hearts that you touched, you were the most unselfish man who gave and gave and always cared even when you said you didn't. I saw right through your mask bc I knew you. When you were angry it was bc you were scared. I dont want to walk this journey without you with me but i have 3 kids who need me more than anything in this world. I promise we will be together again and until then you keep having my back. ♡♡♡

“ I am so very sorry for you loss. Kevin and I started school together in Kindergarten and continued through. I recently just ran into him at the gas station and we chatted for a bit. You all are in our prayers. "To be absent from the body, is to be present with the Lord"

“ I did not know Kevin like most of the folks that have posted memories. However, I do know that Kevin would go out of his way to stand by what and who he believed in. I will be eternally grateful to he and his family for the support they have given to so many. Especially to me and my family. As a parent and wife, my heart is broken for you. Never give up on Jesus Christ to carry you through. My prayer is for this burden to be taken from you and give you peace.

“ Prayers to Ron, Diane, Christina and the other family and past families that Kevin touched their lives. God be with you! I only met Kevin a few years back, but he was the best stepfather my granddaughter Ashley Bowles could have ever had. I became to love him as my own and his kindness to us during Richards cancer time a while back earned him his wings
RIP Kevin, love always

“ To some what may have seemed like a regular day was one of my favorite memories with Kevin. I used to work at Hertz (5-10 from his shop) and I was having a particularly bad day on so many levels. Kevin came in to take care of some things at Hertz and could tell. We knew each other from LKQ fire department. After he finished what he was doing for his business he probably stayed for about an hour (I was working alone that day) to talk to me and try and help me through what was going on. To me, it was significant because he cared enough to just listen. He was like that with everyone. Kevin will be so missed by so many.

“ I'm shocked and personally hurt after reading about Kevin's passing. I have known Kevin since he was 8 or so through his Dad and business, As I struggle was my thoughts, the thoughts of Kevin and his family are foremost in my mind. RIP my friend.
