“ To know Dinkie was to see joy, dedication, friend, joker, love and a true man that would tell you what he thought one minute and the next remain your friend. To know him was to know his family, his likes, his dislikes, and to know he was one of the good guys. Gail, Alex, you already know that you had a jewel for a husband/father. Nothing I can say will take away the sting of death, just know that Dinkie is well loved and my prayer is for God to help the entire family come through this storm, knowing that He is holding your hand. Blessings upon the entire Carter family.

“ Dinkie was a very special person. He always seemed happy & loving life & people. Even through rough days, he managed to be strong around us all at work. I have so many fun memories of him & Wayne. I was blessed to have known him & worked with him. How he loved his family & always so very proud of them was a very special gift. I know he left his family and all of us friends with wonderful memories. May God bless you, Gail, Alex, Chris & all his family.
