“ To Andrea and Cindy-My condolences on the death of Ann Marie. I just learned of it from reading the W&M Alumni Magazine. I am shocked and sad to learn this news. We were best friends in high school, but lost touch during college and adulthood. We did reestablish a relationship later on, but lost touch again when I had an identity theft problem and stopped using Facebook. I sent some messages via other means, but I don't think she received them. I hope her last years were happy. She told me once that if she knew she was headed for the “Great Beyond,” the first thing she would do is light up a cigarette. I was there when she began smoking on the sly, but I didn't like it, and never developed the habit myself. I hope she is puffing away, figuratively, in heaven.
