“ Randy introduced me to his Mom back in the late Spring after I had just my husband months before. I started sitting with her and she really tugged at my heart with her laughter and wonderful sense of humor. Her health was getting ready to decline and I really didn't want to be faced with being with someone that was in pain and couldn't do what she was used to, BUT she made it easy for me. We watched a lot of TV, mostly game shows & Soap Operas. I noticed right away that her sleeping was so comforting to her so I just let her rest, except to wake her occasionally for water intake. She was a delightful woman with so many stories of her late husband and family that she loved so. It was comforting to me to be around her as she also tried and did comfort me also. I felt very blessed to be with her as older people are a wealth of information and we should never take them for granted. I thank God every day for the effect she had on me watching a person go the Lord in peace
