“ Diane was the most honest caring person I know. If you didn't want to know the truth, better not ask her. I love and miss you girl.

“ Diane told me about 3 weeks ago during my last visit with her that “I was scared of dying, then I prayed to God and told him that if you want me, here I am, come get me when you want me” she said, “I don’t feel scared no more” she said she couldn’t wait to see all her family again. Guess who she is having Thanksgiving dinner with. Yep, she is going to be just fine now... R.I.P. and save a spot for us Sis.

“ Diane was a person of dynamic thoughts, and natural beauty, who loved life but with all her gifts and talents, never quite perfected the ONE. Perhaps, the closest was her love of motorcycles and her father and mother being inducted into the Harley Davidson Hall of Fame. Cousins, Dr. Helen C. Williams and David L. Clayton
