“Cousin Janet could never deny her Humbles family heritage. I see my mothers' face, Catherine Marguerite Humbles Setters, in the cheeks and eyes of Janet. They were always in touch and kept the families up to date on important happenings. Around my birthday Janet would call me wherever I might be and wish me a happy birthday. We were three days and 9 years apart but she treated me like a 'little brother' or as I often said 'little bother'. Family ties were the bond and Janet was one to remind me/us just what family meant and why it is important to keep in touch. Thank you Lilean for contacting my brother Norman Setters and alert him of Janet's passing. They were in close contact throughout the years and he filled me in where Janet missed something. May the memories replace the separation now being felt by everyone impacted by her death. She is once again with her heavenly family joined together at the river.
