“ I'm not real sure how a man like John Robins memory could ever be forgotten by anyone who ever knew him. A man I know who loved his family, a man who cherished his grandchildren and a man who loved life. I was so privileged as a young boy to have been friends with his sons which meant I was also friends with John. Numerous times John would talk with me and wanted me to always do right. Almost like a second father in so many regards and so many respects. I like so many are going to miss him but am so blessed to a one time had John as an influence when I was just a boy. I can only imagine the influence he was to his grandchildren. What a great man he was.
