

Kimberly Patrice Young

April 10, 1965 - May 1, 2025

Kimberly “Kim” Patrice Young, 60, of Hustle, VA entered eternal rest, on May 1, 2025. She was the daughter of the late Peter C. Young Sr., and Thelma Louise Young.

At a young age, Kim dedicated her life to Christ and was baptized at First Baptist Church, Loretto, VA. For years, Kim’s voice lifted hearts in the church choir, and her generous spirit even led to introducing her sister Gayle to the man who would become her husband—a quiet act that changed a life forever.

Kim was a proud graduate of the 1983 class of Essex High School, a class that she remained close with the remainder of her life. After graduating high school, Kim attended Old Dominion University, graduating in May 1987, with a bachelor’s degree in social work. For many years, Kim tirelessly worked at the City of Henrico Department of Social Services and City of Fredericksburg Department of Social Services.

Even as the youngest in the family, Kim selflessly became her mother’s full-time caregiver, giving up her own apartment and returning home—driven by love, not obligation, to be there every step of the way. When Kim wasn’t busy taking care of her mother, she could be found curled up reading a good book or completing word searches. Additionally, Kim loved to cook and bake and never hesitated to share whatever she made. Despite the Dallas Cowboys not winning a Superbowl since 1996, Kim was a diehard fan and would root for them even when they did not deserve her cheers.

Kim nailed the role of “auntieing” and was actively involved in all of her nieces and nephews, great nieces and great nephews’ lives. She attended birthday parties, sports games, graduations, special events, and just about everything in between. When living in Richmond, she would host her nieces for the weekend just to spend time with them. Kim could tell you countless tales of her nieces and nephews and never hesitated to express just how proud she was of them. In 2019, Kim started dating Chris Schiavone, a man who brought so much joy, love and laughter into her life. Kim was predeceased by her father Peter, sisters Faye and Gayle, and brothers Elliott and Pete.

Kim leaves behind to cherish her memory, her mother, Thelma Louise; sister, Marilyn; brother in law Marcellus Dungee; nephews, Mickey, Andre and Chris; nieces, Anita, Danielle, Andrea, Daphne, Michelle, Staci and Apriel; great-nieces, LaTavia, London, Mayson, Maliyah and Mariah; great-nephews, Thomas, Camden, Caeden, Maxwell, Mason and Christian; cousin-friends, Doris Gaskins and Sheron Henry; significant other, Chris Schiavone; bonus brother, William Rich; close friends, Patricia Hedgemon, Sharon Hooper and Shelia Minor, and a multitude of additional friends and extended family members.

A memorial service will be held 5pm Friday, May 9, 2025, at the Revival Fire Outreach Center, 323 Prince St., Tappahannock, VA 22560. Interment will be private.

“ Kim was my supervisor at Henrico DSS. The BEST one I had. She was willing to lend a hand when she saw us struggling to keep up. I am sad to hear she is gone and extend my condolences to all the people listed in her obituary :) If memory serves, one nephew appeared in PEOPLE and she was so proud to show me the photo and story :) RIP Kim.

“Kimzie (as I called her) came to work at FXBG in 1988 as a newly minted graduate of Old Dominion University. After only a conversation or two, we realized we were definitely kin. We each grew up the youngest in the family in a rural environment with strong mothers who made sure our respective rear ends were in Church every time we turned around. Somehow, or another my age fit into a gap amongst her five older siblings so I filled that vacancy. We spoke of childhood pets (Jack and Jill) at her home and numerous ones at my home who were usually named while a parent was staring straight at us ready to chastise.

She was smart, funny, and dressed like a million dollars. I never knew that shoe bows were a thing until she explained to me that she really didn't really have matching shoes for every outfit. She wore gem colors as if she were the gem. She treated her clients and her co-workers with respect and the occasional raised eyebrow (which she had perfected). She spoke lovingly, proudly and frequently of her numerous nieces and nephews.. She knew their birthdays, their whereabouts and always had new pictures. I had one I couldn't keep up with.

Time moved on and we each moved to different agencies, but we kept in touch. The DSS grapevine was omnipotent and always true. Eventually she returned to work at FXBG; by that time I was retired. We would meet for lunch; she spoke of her most recent visit to Louise, her beloved mother and I shared stories of my latest dog. She talked with pride of the next generation of nieces and nephews, again knowing their whereabouts and ages. She came through her hysterectomy, staying with some of those beloved nieces, like a champ and managed to make chemo look good. We would dish over who was who in the DSS zoo and laugh at “what goes around, comes around” coming true.

It was a shock when Sandi reached out to tell of her hospitalization and dreadful diagnosis. The next day she was no longer in our midst. That was HARD and is hard. Kimzie Young, youngest daughter of Pete and Louise Young gained her wings prematurely. I consider myself lucky to be her sister of another mother.

That was a great post. I am her nephew Aundre. I seen my Aunt a few times and I'm really said . We use to talk a little through Facebook and didn't hear of her passing until a few days ago and missed her funeral. I would have loved to be their and to speak on our times and talks. I know my Grandmother and two aunts. If you read this text you can give me a call on my cellphone. Once again great post.

How you doing Mrs. Brown this is Aundre. I'm her nephew. I just wanted to talk to some family members about my aunt and get to know my family. I made sure when I went to The country I would make sure I passed to see if she was home and only was one time. It was at like 10 at night. I was happy to see her but I didn't keep her up long because it was late. My number is 540-275-8080 give me a call please.
