“ Mom you were the strongest woman I know. I know God has you. He maintained you for months when earthly maintenance could not. I know you and Daddy are glad to be back together. Love, Angie

Ms. Marcella was like a second mom to me growing up. I'll cherish the memories of helping Bobby & Mickey do laundry with the old time ringer, eating tomatoes on play dishes. Every time we had an accident or something was going on, momma would say go up Ms. Marcella and see if she has any vaseline. Never will forget her smile when I would come back home to visit her and she always remembered who I was. Gone but not forgotten, love. Sylvia Harris Williams
