“ It has been an honor and a blessing to me to know Meredith. Her smile could light up a room! She always looked glamorous (even in scrubs)! We enjoyed our "girls night out" with her so much. Rest in peace sweet Meredith.

“ I met Meredith approximately 23 years ago when her son, Christopher, brought me "home to meet the parents". I can still recall what she was wearing, where she was standing, and what she was cooking.

(White capris, brown top, big white belt, big white earrings, and cute little white sandals. Oh and a necklace. A big necklace. Her hair was poofy and beautiful. Makeup done perfectly. She was standing behind the kitchen counter stirring a large pot of mashed potatoes. There was also an amazing tenderloin in the oven. The house smelled incredible.)

But what I was given when I walked into that house, is something only she could give...warmth. It was like her smile wrapped itself around me and said...welcome. From that moment, I knew we were lifers. We became friends. She was a dream mother-in-law. But I'm not supposed to say that. She didn't like to think of herself as my mother-in-law. She always introduced us as friends.

I really enjoy reading all of the messages posted here. I always wanted to know more of her childhood and life before I popped in. I am truly grateful that our paths crossed....thank you Christopher. She was one of a kind. There will never be another.

As Pepper grows, I notice more and more similarities between them. It's the most incredible gift. If more of us cared about people the way she did, we'd all be better off. So thank you for sharing your thoughts. She touched so many lives. It's comforting to hear from some of them.

I love you Meredith. See you around ;)

““May the work I've done speak for me”. That's a tribute to Meredith. You don't have to convince people that she was a good person. At Christmas time she would give "every" Nurse and CNA a gift from the heart, she gave whether she received or not. She was truly loved at RGH and truly, truly will be missed. Rest in peace my friend

““We met as excited 6 yr olds ready to start the 1st grade. Our first meeting was so memorable because you almost cut off your toe on a fan! Wow, how do you top that? I value the memories of growing up so long ago. I'm sadden we lost touch but I never forgot you. Praying for your heartbroken family. Mr. Madison and Wilson, I'm so very sorry.

“ Where do I begin --I've know Meredith ever since I was a small child--We grew up together across the street from each other--I loved for her to play the piano for me at her house-- we both enjoyed playing with her dog and cat--Pokey and Puff-- Meredith was a very strong lady and I will miss her. “ A lady of such strength, character, love, and giving, Meredith, M, and most importantly Mimi embraced life to the fullest and lived each day giving to others. We are all so enriched from the moments we spent with you, sharing life. From the beginning of our friendship at Busch Gardens in 1976 to our days by the Bay, I will continue to share all that you have taught me with those I love and meet. I will continue to tell your story, my dear friend

This is very sad news...I remember "Mert's" infectious smile and cheerful personality. She was a loyal friend and had many close friends growing up. I have such precious memories of the hospitality shown to me in her home by Mr. and Mrs. Madison. My sincere condolences to Mr. Madison, Wilson, and her boys.
