“ It is a sad time for me as I learned, while on a business trip to Virginia Beach, of the passing of my lifelong friend, Vickie Lynn Hogge. She probably had the strongest will to live and greatest love for life of anyone I have ever known right up to the end, as she literally started a new business and continued to dream of the future while fighting for her life in these last days and weeks. At long last Vickie's suffering is over, and she is receiving her reward. God Bless and prayers for her family. I hope Evan will know how much his grandmother loved him and will have pleasant memories of times shared with her.

Love,
Kathy Moore

“ david and family, my deepest sympathies to you. working as a respiratory therapist I had the privilege of getting to know Vickie over the years(and you also david). your love for each other was clearly evident. I will always remember how when she was admitted to the hospital she would be wheeled down a hallway to her room and she would be like a celebrity waving to everyone she knew as she passed with a great big smile. I would love to sit with her if time permitted and just spend time talking about all kinds of things. I feel like a piece is missing with her passing. sincerely, Diana carnevale
