“ I did not know Mr Helms personally, but please know that my Father, and husband always spoke highly of Mr Helms. Melvin enjoyed working with often commenting on the advice he gave him. So sorry for your family's loss.

“ God bless you old friend. It would take a book to share the memories that have grown between your family and ours. It was always a pleasure to see you and easy to see why your family and friends enjoyed your company. I have to admit that as we got older our tales got taller, memories shorter, laughs deeper and appreciation of our life's experiences more precious. Debbie, your beautiful children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren had a good man to look up to. You will be missed.
